10:15am The Impact of Technology on Learning - Rob Residori, Brightbytes

Education Leader Rob Residori will introduce a powerful, research-based framework that measures the impact of technology on learning, complete with case studies and examples. In addition, a change management component based on Marzano and McRel's work will also be discussed that will help leaders better understand the overall health of their initiatives and how to manage the change process. Walk away with an understanding of how technology can be an integral part of instructional planning and how to best measure the impact of initiatives and the process of change on leadership and instructional staff.
